Comment on N2021-1

I object to the changes suggested in this Advisory Opinion. Reductions and slowdowns in service last year damaged my work as a freelance writer, much of which is still conducted by mail. In fact, much of my LIFE is conducted by mail, and the same is true of my neighbors; I live in a rural area where reliable internet service is still difficult to come by.

First-class delivery being moved away from planes and onto trucks makes a mockery of the postal "class" system. And trying to privatize the USPS, or shift delivery to private carriers, is a nonstarter. Let's repair the damage done to our beloved postal service, not just in the last year but over the last several decades, and enjoy a service we once justly took pride in. These proposals are harmful, and shameful. And while I've got your ear: POSTAL BANKING IS THE FUTURE. Pass it on, and also enact it.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,
Heather Seggel
